two scores.

The visitors from Richmond put up an excellent defense at all other periods of the game, and made the lo al collegians work hard for every yerd gained. The visitors also had several plays with which they could gain regularly, but lacked variety of attack, and attempts a end runs were almost always. tempts at end runs were almost always tempts at one raise were among aways lackled for loss. KICKED-IN-THE-JAW.

KICKED -- ON -THE - JAW

Nomenclature is a new problem in foot-ball that is facing the Carlisle Indian eleven, and philology, the science of language, may be a last resort if the difficulty is to be overcome. It came about through a certain Kicked-in-the-Jaw. That is his real name, and he does not need an allas to play foot-ball.

Now Kicked-in-the-Jaw, while possessing all the athletic ferocity which the name might suggest is a mild-mannered redskinned Seneca, just arrived at the voting age, who received his name as the result of a kick on the chin received when he was ten years old and while he was trying to ride bareback on two indian ponies. His given and Christian names are Herbert John. And what's in an Indian name, anyhow? Kicked-in-thr-Jaw now knows more about Hiawatha's childhood than his own. He hopes to lend his name temporarily to a pale-faced collegian soon.

LEXINGTON, VA., October 28.—Virginia Military Institute this afternoon defeated William and Mary College-23 to 0. Although a one-sided score, yet the game was full of ginger, and both teams put up snappy ball. The first score was made after three minutes of play. A sensational run of 5 yards for a touchdown by Cadet Beckner was not allowed, because he stepped several inches over the side line. The halves were 25 minutes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Apropos of the symposium sent you last Saturday, when the football authorities of various colleges throughout the country discussed the relative merits of American Rugby football, the game now played here, and association or "socker" football, which is played in England, Sir Ernest Cecil Cochraine, who is accompanying the Pligrims, a team of British players of the first rank, now making a tour of the chief cities of the United States, said yesterday;—

Chicago and The Chicago and Chicago and the country or not. The opinions given were mostly those of the conches of various teams in America, and may L with great respect, point out that this is scarcely a fair criticism. You would harvily expect the conches of the teams who play American football to go into raptures over an imported game deep claily when the imported game does not need a coach.

Since their arrival in this country the Plistings and Fhiladelpinal, creating in each city such a favorable impression by the real sportamaship and solence of brutality that the better atheletic clus in each of those cities are now forming Association teams. With respect to your colleges, it may be said that the University of Peansylvania, after the game at the Germantown Cricket Club, invited Capital Milnes and the Pligrims to return to Fhiladelpina grant and the companion of the contraint of the contra
